

Tardies

- It is impossible that the document provided by Father is accurate.
- From late Sept. 2024 through March 10, 2025, I was not taking Isaac to school on Mondays, so those tardies could not have been caused by me.
- The school's tardy report does not identify which parent brought Isaac to school.

Why Isaac Should Stay at Plato

- This case is about Isaac's best interests, not either parent's convenience.
- Isaac has ADHD, anxiety, and suspected autism and his educational supports, with staff he trusts and has existing relationships with, are already in place at Plato.
- He has established relationships with:
 - teachers
 - MTSS/special education staff
 - speech services
 - classmates
- Continuity is especially important for a neurodivergent child.

Child-Specific Reasons

- Isaac needs additional help in reading/English Language Arts.
- Plato shows stronger ELA learning gains, especially for struggling readers.
- Isaac has completed two years of Greek and enjoys continuing the program. Winthrop does not offer this.
- If he remains at Plato, his support begins immediately; changing schools means starting over.

Father's School Change

- Father originally selected Plato.
- The requested change came only after Father moved to Riverview.
- The proposed transfer primarily benefits Father's commute—not Isaac's educational continuity.

Closing Theme

This is not about which school has the higher rating. It is about preserving stability for a child with special educational needs. Isaac is succeeding
